Beautiful site you've created. I like the feeling behind what you've done, it captures something a little more intimate than Widownet does. Although WN was one of the single greatest things in my life after Earl died, I still like the feel of this one you've created. It comes from a place more emotional that so many people need. I don't know quite how to explain it, just that I like it, comfortable maybe.

I would like to point out one thing to you, I think it's important and if the tables were turned I would hope that you would do the same for me. And I think you would. I'm not the greatest speller anymore but this one was apparent to me and I think you'd want to know in order to fix it.

In the title section you meant to say through instead of thought, and following in the about section. Good luck with this site, I think it will be great!

Safehaven chat room and website has been my life line since I've lost my husband John in 2011, everyone is very friendly, understands and supportive, the moderators go out of there way also to keep everyone safe from scammers, etc. Just like family, I would highly recommend this siteto anyone who has any kind of loss, doesn't matter how long it has been.

Safe haven for Widowed ... very nice people there. Forum and website is very informative with articles and can light memorial candles.

Safehaven For Widowed has been my lifeline since 2010, and has saved me many, of many days and nights of thinking I am crazy when others don't understand. Or a shoulder to cry on, listen, talk too, they understand and listen and talk to you. Safehaven is a great site with very nice people who all understand and are there no matter what time of day or night. The rest of the site is great too and always maintained and watched to keep scammers and etc out of it. It is very safe.

So glad to have found Safehavenforwidow. seems like a great safe site. So very sorry and sad we all have to meet here, but grateful there is a place for us to gather and hug and share. healing hugs and love to each of u!!!

I just tried the safehavenforwidowed site, seemed nice, glad it is all loss now, will try it again.

It was a great site.

Those who want and need to stay connected to grow friends need a good place to continue to support each other. Safehaven is not groww but it is the closet to grow of all the chat rooms I have looked at.

They are very caring people there who are hurting and want to help each other. So please if you want to go to a good grief chat hang in there with safehaven. We all miss groww, sad it is gone. But we do need a place to continue to heal, lean on, and chat .no one is being disrespectful to grow. But it is gone now. Hope to see groww friends there!!

Love u all!!!

Groww chat room has been the life line for all of us, no matter how long we were going there. The things we learned, the friends we made, the ppl that helped us and those we helped will always be part of us. But, with the Groww chat room gone, we have to find another path to help us. We post on this wonderful page - Groww facebook, during hard times, but some of us still need to chat, and this page is not really a chat page.

There will never be another Groww, just like there will never be another like the one/ones we lost, but that does not mean that we cannot move forward with the friends we have made through the wonderful place that is no longer here. For those of you that no longer need a chat room, I am happy for you, for those of us that do, and still want to stay with our groww friends I am thankful we can post where we will be so we can continue to support one another in chat and not just in posts here.

As for saying it is like groww... well, the other room we tried was really Not like Groww, and did not work so well for some. I think those that are "comparing" are just trying to let the others know that they may feel more comfortable there, not to ever take away anything from Groww chat.

We all wish we still had Groww I have been to Safe Haven for Widowed several times now ( my name is Clarissa) and found it very helpful. I've been to AllRightHeath.com

Safehaven Regarding Widowed - The Grief support team on the internet. SafeHavenforWidowed.Org is really a safe private, support team regarding Widows, Widowers, Youngsters, or anyone who has lost a husband or wife, companion, or perhaps a beloved.

I wanted to say thank you to all my earth angels for so many encouraging words and to those who shared your experiences. It is so different reading all your comments compared to those around us, that although also give us encouraging words, do not understand the simplest decisions can be so hard for us who are on this journey. Even an enjoyable or much needed vacation seems so daunting that feelings of helplessness inundate us.

Thank you, thank you and thank you again. You might think that posting a reply is just that, putting down in words what you are feeling, but you never know that what you have posted is what one of us on this journey needed to hear. God bless you all and please continue to pray for me just like I pray every day for all my earth angels and sorry that we had to meet under such circumstances.

Rachel

Hi! First, thank you Bill for creating this site. It is really wonderful and helpful. I'm Rachel. My husband John died August 18, 2011 age 29 after 8 long days in the ICU. He went into the hospital for a minor surgical procedure. His biggest complaint was he had to spend the night and he wasn't happy about it. A mistake was made and he was deprived of oxygen he never woke up and 8 days later I had to make the decision to remove him from life support.

I was lucky enough to be married to him for 4 short years; we were just starting to plan a family together. Even now, it's hard for me to believe he's really gone as he was larger than life to me and the healthiest person I know. I'm so happy I found this site I belonged to a few other sites before I was not receiving the support I needed through bereavement and some were very unfriendly and controlling.
